4th AIEAA "Giovanni Anania Summer School"

The 4th edition of the Giovanni Anania Summer School on 'Evidence-based Policy Making', will be held from July 10 to July 14, 2023 in Rende (CS), Italy. The summer school is organized by AIEAA in collaboration with CREA-PB, the Rossi-Doria Center and University of Calabria.

The theme chosen for this edition is "Economy-wide models for agricultural, food and environmental policy analysis." As in previous editions of the School, it will see a combination of lectures, exercises and group works, requiring the use of real datasets.

Based on the applications received, the Scientific Committee of the School selected 31 participants, of whom 21 are PhD students. Moreover, 7 of them are affiliated with non-Italian universities or research centres.

AIEAA Thematic Seminars

AIEAA proposes a format for cultural and scientific discussion "self-managed" by AIEAA members to facilitate exchange and sharing of knowledge. Members have possibility to organize thematic seminars aimed at discussing theoretical or empirical topics of interest for the scientific debate. Thematic seminars can be organised in presence, as "webinars" or mixed mode using the technology of the AIEAA's TEAMS platform. More info available here.
